W. H. Lendrum, of New York City, vice president of the Sedgwick Loan and investment company, who arrived in the city Friday, called yesterday in company with Hon, Rodolph Hatfield. Mr. L., says that no county in the state stands so high in New York as Sedgwick, and that the bonds of no city in Kansas are so largely sought for by investors as the Wichita city and school bonds. Mr. L., will remain several days in the city, but he was not particularly well impressed with the winds of the past two days.

We received a letter yesterday from J. E. Parkheimer, of Sheffield, Pa., who says he undertook to be a boomer but that one day's experience scared him out. Having got back home safely he writes that he would like to know how it all came out, anyhow, and thought the surest scheme could be to subscribe for the EAGLE, which he hopes won't miss a single issue for a year to come. We are glad to announce for his special information that it came out all right, that there are a half dozen cities down there already with from 1,000 to 5,000 inhabitants, and that the whole territory is blooming like a rose-a Wichita is talking of paving some of her principal streets. Let us give Wichita some advice on that subject drawn from experience. Use vitrified brick. It is, everything considered, the best paving material. In the old Dutch town of Ammaterial. In the old Dutch town of Amsterdam, Holland, there are vitrified brick pavements that have been down for over half a century, and yet show no signs of fecay. In Wheeling, West Vitginia, there is, at the crossing of the two streets on which the heaviest traffic is done, a vitrified brick pavement that has been down a dozen years, and it is as good as it was the day it was laid. Vitrified brick combines all the good availties of all other naving cay it was taid. Affiliate of all other paving material. It is as noiseless as wood, as smooth as asphalt, without being slippery; and as durable as stone. It is the pavement of the future.—Atchison Champion.

That's all very encouraging talk, but why don't Atchison go into the vitrified brick pavement?

The school board met in regular session last night with President Levy in the chair and members NcNair, Clapp, rence, Pallett, Fegetley, Tucker and Piatt present. Among the spectators was the Rev. Brown, who last year was chairman of the board, and who recently moved to Conway Springs. He seemed to take con siderable interest in the proceedings of the board. He was invited to take a seat within the railing, which he did promptly and seemed to appreciate the courtesy ex-

Mr. Clapp, chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds, said some parties had applied for the use of buildings, or some of them, for summer schools. He asked for information as to the proper thing to do. The matter was referred to the committee with power to act.

Prof. Shull submitted a brief report of the high school, showing the senior class to consist of nineteen which were especially pleasing to Mr. members and spoke very highly of the Horr to read. Still if any one of his east- class. The whole number enrolled ninety-

He stated that some attention had been given to the commencement exercises. No arrangements had been agreed upon and suggested that the board would do well to give it immediate attention.

The suggestion was taken up and the board instructed the committee on course of study to secure hall and make arrangements for commencement day. Mr. Clapp stated that last year the board had secured the Crawford and it was filled with people, and thought it would be a good to get that building again. Mr. Lawrence asked if it would be policy to charge for admission, the funds to to the library fund. Mr. Levy stated that last year the ushers had charged a fee but it did not reach the library fund. Mr. Fegtley recalled that the new clausy provides for making assessment for library fund. He seemed to think the people would think the board hard up if they charge a fee. Mr. Clapp stated that he could see us objection to charging a nominal fee as it would give a little money for the library fund and also keep out a certain class of street gamins and riff raff who had no business there and who would make it unpleasant for all in the hall.

Tucker moved an admission fee be charged not to exceed 10 cents while Clapp proved a second. Mr. Pratt said he never knew of a charge o see commencement exercises. He said it would be a bad thing to do and would property of the company. Mr. Clapp said the free ticket system did not prove satisfactory and he would favor a change. The original plan could not reach all parties intended to be present.

McNair said he would oppose the motion

as he thought it would be very unsatisfactory. He would favor, however, putting the Crawford ushers under bonds. Levy-Question is on the ten cent show The vote showed the motion lost, and Fegtley of the auditing com-mittee commenced to read his re-The bills called for $123.60. County Superintendent Pence stated that the state convention of county superintendents would be held in the city next week and some time during the meeting the reception will be held and invited the board to take part in making arrangments. As a committee to represent the poard Fegtley. Platt and Lawrence was appointed. On suggestion the city super-intendent was added to the committee. McNair was made chairman of the committee on teachers and saleries during the absence of Mr. Campbell.

"JUSTICE'S CAUGHT." Mr. Lawrence said it had been intimated that some of the justices had not turned over to the board all money due from fines. He had understood that the board at present is done up for about $2,000. He moved the financial committee look over the books of the justices in hunt of money due the school money. Mr. McNair proved a second. The motion prevailed.

The president stated that an investigaports for the latter month are not yet all tion had been made just before election and all paid up but one, who claimed the county owed him, and as soon as the county paid him he would pay the board. This caused some merriment, and Fegetley said $45 of the county's indebtness had been paid as that much had been received. He suggested that Mr. Lawrence be added to the committee to hunt stray fines.

McNair at this moment seized the op portunity to read report of the committee's work on rules and regulations. It was a heavy manuscript ready for going to the case and written on both sides of the paper also.

Fegtly moved the report be adopted as a whole and the motion carried.

Clapp asked to have the superintene ent's report on the course of study read, when Mr. Pallett stated he had the report in his possession and considered it very comprehensive. Mr. Lawrence had also examined it and thought it should be printed.

Mr. McNair, of library committee, reported favorably to a li-brary room at the Irving school building. Estimated cost of improvement 235. The roommendation was adopted.

Mr. Fegtley asked if the superintendent of buildings and grounds should make a report and if it should be printed. He was answered by the president that a report should be made but not necessary to

There was a general discussion about when committee reports should be pre-pared and what ones should be printed. He introduced another resolution that no application for city superintendent be considered when the candidate has not held a similar position with a force of twenty-five teachers. Mr. Clapp seemed to think that the reso lution was a little ridiculous, as it would cut out many fine educators. Piatt said he wanted to leave the way open to all who wanted to apply, and the board could decide who should be appointed. Fegtley-There are a great many applications coming in-forty in number-coming from from graduates, superintendents in small towns, and in fact all classes being represented.

After long discussion the entire resolution was dumped overboard and the board adjourned. The new committee on teachers and

REORGANIZATION OF WICHITA, KANSAS MINING COMPANY.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wichita, Kansas, Mining Company for the election of officers was held on Friday, May 3. The meeting should have been held on the first Monday in January, but for various reasons-mainly on account of defalcations on the part of the late president-meetings have been adjourned from time to time. On Friday, however, a majority of the stock was rep resented and a reorganization of the company was effected.

After the office of president had been declared vacant and the late president had been denounced as an absconder, forger and misappropriator of the company's moneys and properties, and it had been determined to instigate suit for the recovery of the company's properties, the busines of the election of new officers was proceeded with with the following result, viz :

President—Wm. Mathewson.
Vice President—L. V. Harkness.
Secretary—G. E. Harris.
Treasure—O. H. Bentley.
Directors—W. L. Woods and Alex Ma-

It will thus be seen that the company starts out anew, and as their leases and properties are of great value. The organization is an important one, likely to largely benefit the state, and particularly Wichita, by the developments that will be made of the mineral lands of Kansas. Prof. Woods has high expectations of the Vice President Lendrum, of New York, who was present at the meeting, said that money comes west much more readily this year than ever before. He seemed well pleased with the city and the southwest.

THE WIND STORM. The dry wind storm kept up a certain degree of violence yesterday and had something to do with anything that could be moved easily. Some of the shantles on the suburbs and elsewhere for that matter were considerably shaken up. Two trees on Robert Jacks' property on North Topeka avenue were blown down but in falling no other damages were done.

One of the show windows in Mossbacher's jewelry store was broken, it having been cracked before. On some of the buildings brick work was suspended while others a small were employed. The fellows adjusting the telegraph worked away, hanging on to the poles with great care.

A farmer a few miles east of the city started to the hay market with a load of hay, and had very little left on reaching Some of the old timers said they had not witnessed as heavy storm in the Arkansas valley since '72, and others say the storm in that year was not as long or severe as the present one.

Early yesterday morning the report gained circulation that the Crawford had been seriously damaged by the storm. This, however, was a mistake, as the damage is very slight. Some of the cornice on the east end which had not been properly fastened was removed. The damage was

We began with one broad three days old, of the Crevennes variety The department of agriculture has fur nished me three boxes of eggs of the Umbria variety, of the same yellow color as the Crevenues but larger. These will hatch out in the three next succeeding weeks. They were hibernated at a temperature of 30 to 40 degrees F. Those I have in the ice factory at 40 to 50 degrees. The average temperature of the room when we are feeding has been during the past week 60 degrees F. At this low temperature they have grown well, shed their coats, or moulted, the fifth day without the loss of one. This would have been impossible to do on the damp sea coast, but in Kansas, in our dry climate failures elsewhere are a success here. This is the first experiment proved here. Any one interested in silk culture is invited to see our H. E. BIDWELL.

THE RAILWAY HOG.

A Western Man Teaches a Massachuse Woman a Needed Lesso Nowhere in the wide world does the rall-way hog so flourish as in Boston. Not infrequently-alast that it should be neces sary to say it - the too-familiar animal wears petticoats. It is found in astonishing numbers on the suburban trains that bring half the business population into town always striving to occupy as much room as possible, regardless of other passengers' comfort. The cheek of this human variety of porker is simply unspeakable. It affords an ideal illustration of the peculiar want of courtesy toward and consideration for his fellow beings which so markedly characterizes the indigenous Yankee. amusing instance in point, of which the writer was a witness only the other day, says a Boston correspondent of the St. Louis Globe Democrat. A good-natured looking Westerner in boots entered a car bound for Roslindale, on the Providence road. It was very crowded, and people were standing upon all sides. Walking slowly through the aisle, he came at last upon a young woman reading a novel, who was occupying the whole of an extra bench, turned over, for the accommodation of a small pug dog that lay comfortably snoozing upon a shawl. The passengers who stood about were eyeing the spectacle with looks of indignation, but not one of them seemed to have the nerve to protest. The new comer, however, was not lacking in that quality. "Madam," he said, mildly, "I would like to sit down, if you please." The young female looked up at him from with a cold and withering glare. "The seat is engaged," she replied, with through the open car window, and calmly took the seat thus made vacuat. The train had come to a pause at Roxbury station just a minute before and was only beginning to move off as this occurred. The dog alighted upon the ground uninjured, and at once scampered out of sight. Its mistress-who had not had time to interfere, so quickly was the thing done-jumped to her feet with a scream of surprise, and would certainly have gone for the wool of her adversary had not the conductor at that very instant thrust his hand at her for her fare. To the latter, who had not seen the occurrence, owing to the crowd, she made a hysterical appeal for redress, begging him at the same time to stop the engine, so that her pet might be picked up. But another passenger put in a word, upon which the official said that she had been served quite right, and that she might get off at the next station. This she did; but whether she recovered her dog or not is
